Dear Colleagues,

As the coronavirus brought overwhelming changes to our personal and professional lives, we had to face unforeseen challenges in our therapeutic practice and our training institutions. Acknowledging the many fears, we tried to be open to these new experiences. We dared to work analytically through the screen not only with adults (individually and in groups), but even with young children. The loss is here, but the challenge is also here. As the 'habit to habits' needs to change, can we, as therapists, work through our resistances and step into this unfamiliar territory and use it as a chance for growth? We need to address these issues and reflect on our experiences.

We are pleased to announce the EFPP Online Day-Conference "Pandemic in our lives: effects on our patients" to be held on 25th September 2021.

Our key-note speaker is Prof. Alessandra Lemma, who will give a presentation titled "Psychoanalysis behind the screen: some personal reflections".

The structure of the Conference will retain the characteristic of all EFPP conferences, of discussion groups after the main lecture (in break-out rooms), followed by a round table of all sections titled: "Towards a comprehensive reflection on the impact of the pandemic in our work". Speakers in this round table will be: Alessandra Chinaglia (Adult Section), Evie Athanasiadou (Child & Adolescent Section), Gila Ofer (Group Section), Mary Morgan (Couple & Family Section).

We look forward to an interesting discussion and exchange of ideas with the help of the technology that will bring us close from a distance.

Please book the date.
Registration info is coming soon.
